

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/moniiq/3932837768/>

de torens van IJouwert (groot leeuwarder monument)

the original idea of the 'fries museum' was that every household in IJouwert would have a brick delivered. people could then take their brick to a place in the centre of town and mortar it to other people's bricks and in this way a work of art would be created.

i was looking forward to this, having my brick brought home to me, getting acquainted with it and decorate or reshape or whatever it and then handing it over to public space and prosperity.

but delivery was stopped pretty soon for apparently some people had other plans with their bricks. the art project wasn't called off but now you had to go to the place of the monument to get your brick.

that's a pity, because not having my brick delivered home to me, i forgot all about the project 'till it was too late. the thing is finished now. i ran into it today and all i can still add to the 'great IJouwert monument' are these photographs.

Comments

Y.O_|X|_Y.N.T.L. says:

Ik run der lans en ik snapte der neat fan, mar dit makket it wol dudelyk.

Posted 2 weeks ago. ( permalink )